"A Crisis of Culture: Seeking Justice to Reclaim the Church"

Born in Dublin, Ireland, Marie Collins is a tireless campaigner for the protection of children, for the accountability of the church, and for justice for survivors of sexual abuse as she herself was a victim of clergy abuse as a 13-year-old. She is a founding trustee of the Marie Collins Foundation and the support group for abuse survivors, One in Four (Ireland), as well as a founding member of the Irish depression support group Aware. She resigned from the Pontifical Commission for the Protection of Minors in 2017.

FUTURE CHALLENGES

How to sustain energy and involvement to bring a new generation forward?

How to extend the invitation to join us in the struggle?

How to walk with a younger generation searching for a more inclusive church and/or a more life-giving spirituality?
